CHRISTINE MILLER
DELIGHTS HEARERS

Famous Contralto Appears Before Packed House in Edison Tone Test.

Christine Miller, famous contralto, well known in Fairmont as an artist and as a young woman of unusually pleasing personality, together with Thos. A. Edison's re-creation of her own voice, entertained a large audience for an hour and a half at the Grand last night when she sang in direct comparison with her own voice as re-created by Edison.

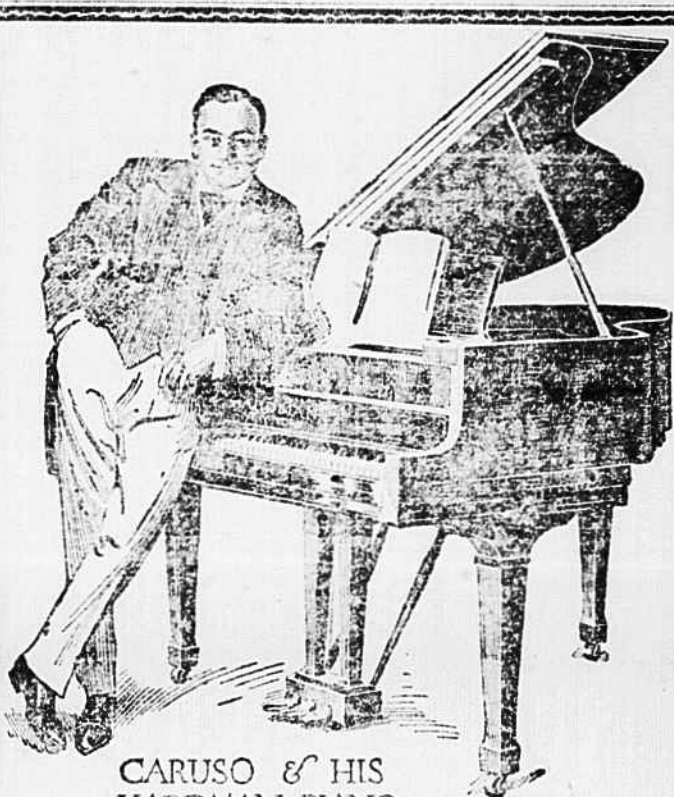

When the doors were opened at 7:45 last night a crowd of several hundred waited entrance and from that time on a constant stream of people poured in at the doors. At eight the theater was filled, chairs were placed in available space and many were standing. At 8:30 the performance began. Arthur Walsh, a violinist, also an Edison artist, made a brief speech to the audience telling the story of the talking machine, which was invented

40 years ago by Thos. A. Edison and for lack of time was undeveloped for thirty years. In the last ten years, however, the wizard had completed the invention at a cost of several millions of dollars in experiments, but which he had at length completed and pronounced perfect and had decreed that it should be put to the hardest test, that of appearing directly with the artist whose music it re-created.

Miss Miller who possesses the old time charm of manner which captivated her hearers before her marvelous voice is heard, sang a number of selections with the Edison, stopping at intervals while the re-created voice sang on, the exact reproduction being so perfect as to deceive many. Miss Miller also sang a counter part to her own voice in several selections producing a wonderfully blended harmony.

Mr. Walsh, who is a violinist of unusual ability, played with the re-creation of his violin in a remarkable demonstration of the Edison's ability to re-create stringed instruments, the vibration of the strings being entirely audible.

Two Edison selections demonstrating the male voice, one of a piano solo in which the Edison excels and an orchestra selection which brought out the various instruments in a splendid manner were given. Throughout the performance the audience accorded the most flattering attention and the impression created by the Edison was profound.
